FAQ

What is a dry herb (flower) vaporizer?

PAX dry herb vaporizers heat cannabis instead of burning. This process creates vapor, rather than smoke. PAX devices preserve more of the natural terpenes, cannabinoids, and aromas of the plant without generating any harsh smoke. PAX devices are portable, lightweight and designed to deliver exceptional cannabis experience at home or on the go. Great for solo sessions or sharing with friends.

Do dry herb vaporizers smell?

PAX dry herb vaporizers preserve more of the natural flavors and aromas of the plant, all without generating any harsh smoke. The vapor PAX devices produce isn't nearly as thick or pungent as smoke. The vapor and faint smell a PAX device produces will also dissipate much faster than smoke.

Are dry herb vaporizers more potent?

PAX devices provide a more potent experience because they heat, and never burn, your cannabis. This preserves more natural cannabinoids like THC, as well as terpenes for better flavors and aromas. The THC percentage of the particular flower you're using has a major impact on the overall potency of your experience.).

How do I use a PAX device?

With the PAX Mini and Plus, it's easy. Simply grind cannabis to a medium-coarse consistency and pack tightly into the oven. Press and release the mouthpiece to turn on. Wait for the X to turn green, then draw gently to produce the vapor and enjoy. To use concentrates with the PAX Plus, place concentrate within the center circle of the Concentrate Insert, close the lid, and place the Concentrate Insert into the oven. Once powered on, set the Experience Mode to Boost (4 petals
